

ProVation® Medical Part of Wolters Kluwer Health

The ProVation® Medical brand is part of Wolters Kluwer Health, a leading provider of information and business intelligence for students, professionals and institutions in medicine, nursing, allied health, pharmacy and the pharmaceutical industry.

Since 1994, ProVation Medical has been dedicated to helping clinicians and medical facilities focus on patients rather than paperwork. Ranked #1 in the clinical procedure documentation category of KLAS' 2005, 2006 and 2007 year-end reports, ProVation software is now used by thousands of clinicians at more than 500 hospitals and surgery centers across the U.S.

Driven by deep medical content, the ProVation software suites allows clinicians to worry less about paperwork and more about patients. It is an enterprise-wide solution available in a continually growing number of medical specialties and is currently in use at more than 500 hospitals and surgery centers nationwide.

The company produces three independent software solutions—ProVation® MD, ProVation MultiCaregiver®, and ProVation® EHR—each aimed at producing accurate, efficient information at the point of care while reducing transcription, paper storage and image printing costs.

ProVation MD is the first medical-procedure documentation and coding-compliance solution to allow medical specialists to create highly detailed notes in minutes instead of days. ProVation MD provides the missing link between clinical terminology and reimbursement codes, driving revenue recovery through compliant coding and proper, timely reimbursement. The software enhances patient safety through better documentation, automatic data tracking and quality improvement. Features include automated populations of Post-Procedure Orders and Patient Instructions, automated recall functionalities for patient follow-up and pathology results due, device tracking and many more.

ProVation EHR is the first electronic health record system designed for busy, cost-conscious ambulatory surgery centers. It offers robust electronic documentation and document imaging for all elements of the patient encounter, from past records and procedure documentation to follow-up care. It eliminates printing and chart storage costs while streamlining workflow.

ProVation MultiCaregiver provides complete perioperative documentation that allows nurses, anesthesiologists, surgeons and other caregivers to quickly gather and share clinical information. ProVation MultiCaregiver enables facilities to enhance the quality of patient care, reduce administrative costs and achieve compliant, standardized documentation.

ProVation Medical is part of Wolters Kluwer Health, a leading provider of information and business intelligence for students, professionals and institutions in medicine, nursing, allied health, pharmacy and the pharmaceutical industry. Both ProVation and Wolters Kluwer Health are owned and operated by Wolters Kluwer, a chief global information services and publishing company operating in more than 33 countries across the globe and employing approximately 19,500 people.

Wolters Kluwer
Health

ProVation® Medical